

Training	Description
Presentation of the company and product portfolio	Acquainting interns with the company, market specification and with its product portfolio
Functioning of the company and its internal organization	Participating in the series of meetings and trainings in different departments of the company to become acquainted with their corework and with rules of interdepartmental cooperation, which is essential in running multidepartmental projects
Software	Trainings of basic computer skills and series of practical exercises, which enable interns to prepare elementary analyses on their own; trainings of advanced functions for power user
Methodology	Detailed trainings, concerning process of creating particular services, as an introduction to actual data analysing and preparing business recommendation for our Clients
Data analyses	Trainings and series of intern's own analyses aiming at understanding relation between indicators and drawing proper conclusions based on data, which enable interns to create market analyses on their own
General rules of preparing market analyses	Training concerning basic rules of preparing market analyses, but also emphasising ways of presenting data at public forum, which prepare interns for leading meetings with Clients aiming at presenting business recommendations
Intern's own presentations	This training enables interns to gain practical skills of public speaking

All trainings include not only theoretical knowledge, but also real examples, tests, practical tasks and participation in currently realising projects, which requires participants' commitment